

MY DRUM LESSONS

Andrew Joseph talks about setting up with 'My Drum Lessons'

Trying to balance the work load as a freelance musician and teacher can be really tough but with the help of 'My Drum Lessons' this has become much easier.

After speaking with the team it was clear that with their help I could have my website, email address, certificate, promotional material and marketing done for me giving me the time to work on getting new students and, playing!

After signing up, I was given fantastic advice and training which I have put into action since my startup. Additionally the design of the business cards provided, look amazing and really helpful as graphic design is not my strong point!

Using the 'My Drum Lessons' email account and brand is a really positive way in providing a professional and trustworthy platform for potential clients.

Within a month I had already received numerous enquiries and a couple of bookings, and with my promotional material and google ranking I am fully confident this will continue to grow. I am really pleased I signed up with 'My Drum Lessons' and would recommend it to fellow teachers who are looking of ways to grow their business!
